Entered according to Act of Congress in the year 1880,
BY FRANK HARRISON & CO.,
In the office of the Librarian of Congress, at Washington.

Grant and Til., went up the hill
To get a pail of water.
Grant fell down, and broke his
crown,
And Til. came tumbling after.

"There was an old woman tossed
Up in a basket,
Nineteen times higher than the moon."

We do it so.
Do it as we do it.
Do it so.

"He went to take a bird's nest,
'Twas built upon a bough;
A branch gave way, down fell
James A.,
Into a dirty slough."

Lazy "Hank," with jacket blue,
Stole his father's gouty shoe;
The worst of harm that dad can
wish him,
Is that his gouty shoe may fit
him.

Can the boy add?

Oh, yes! the boy can add;

He understands Addition,

Division and Silence.

Does the boy go up?
Yes, the boy goes up.
The boy and the barrel
Both go up.

When good King Arthur ruled
this land,
He was a goodly King;
He stole three pecks of barley-
meal,
To make a bag-pudding.

"Does the boy make
The barrel go?"
"Oh, No! the barrel
Makes the boy go."

And the dish ran away with the spoon.

"Is it the wax head
At the wig-makers?"
Oh, "No! it is a portrait
Of John A. Logan."

Can the boy suck the egg ?
Oh, No ! the egg is a bad egg.

Little Jack Horner sat in the corner,
Eating his Christmas pie;
He put in his thumb, and pulled out a plum,
And said, what a good boy am I!

The boy had only borrowed the melons, for he said to the man with the stick:—

"If you please mister we'll just let all these go as a loan."

Simple Simon went to look
If plums grew on a thistle;
He prick'd his fingers very much,
Which made poor Simon whistle.

Is it the boy with the Little hatchet?
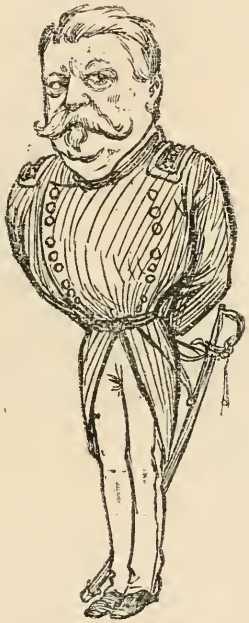
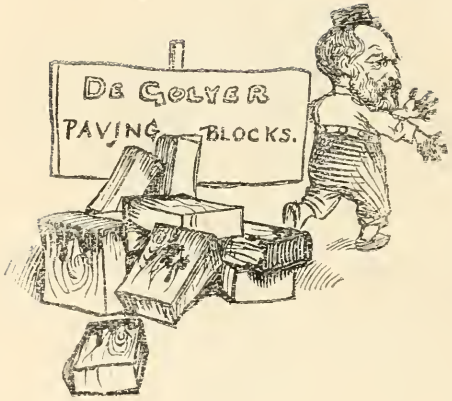
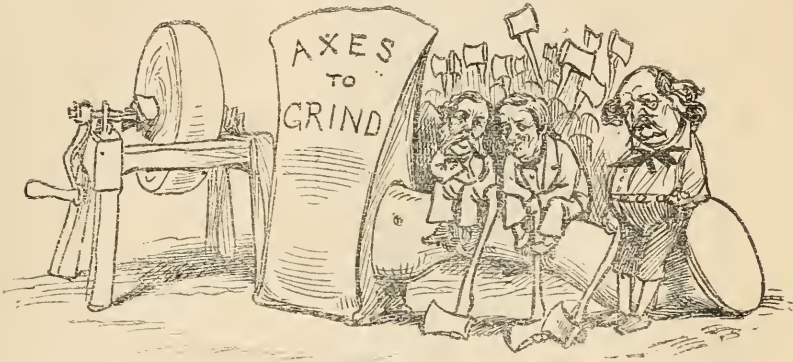
Oh, No! It is the boy
With the canal boat.



"Is it a wasp?"
"Oh, No! it is not
A wasp. It is a
Boy who wears corsets."



If James had not played
With these dirty blocks,
His fingers would not be so black.



"And if all the axes were one ax,
What a great ax that would be!"

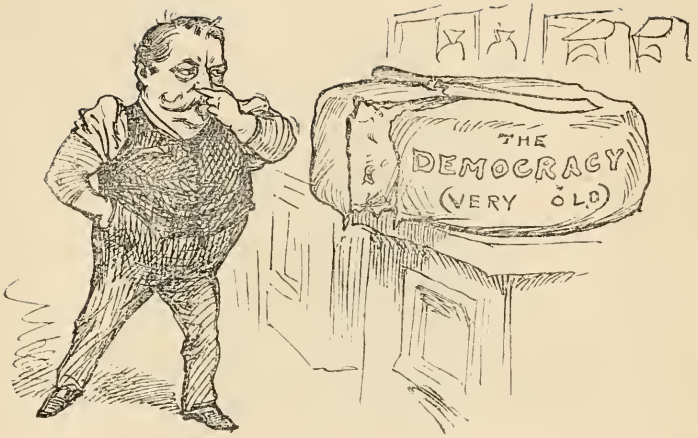
He went for to eat honey
Out of the mustard pot,
He bit his tongue until he cried,
That was all the good he got.

ADVICE OF A FATHER TO HIS "SUN."

In July begin to lie;
In August kick up the dust;
In September blow the ember;
In October slop clear over;
In November ME remember.

"Did the boy say, Gol Darn yer?"
"Oh, No! But he said De Gol-yer."



"Can the boy carry the cheese
To the White House?"
The boy is very strong,
But the cheese is very strong too!

Fe, Fi, Fo, Fum
I smell the Bar'l of an Englishman;
Dead or alive, I must have some.

THE STANDARD SHORT STORY SERIES.

This Series will embrace a selection of short stories by well-known English, French, and American authors, whose name and high reputation will be a sufficient guarantee to the reader. In fact, this series will present an array of fiction to which the publishers can point with pride as ranking amongst the best efforts of the best intellects of the time. Each number of this series, Price 10 Cents, will contain two or more stories. It will consist of about one hundred pages of type so large and clear as to be read with comfort in a railway car—the vacillating motion and dim light of which so often render the perusal of cheap literature difficult and tantalising ; while its size will allow it to be carried easily, and without folding in the pocket. These advantages, joined to the proved nature of the contents, insuring some hours' delightful reading, will, as the Publishers confidently expect, render the Series especially acceptable.

No. 1, just published, contains two interesting and thrilling stories, entitled :

"THE DUEL IN HERNE WOOD," by Wilkie Collins.

"MARA ; OR, THE GIRL WITHOUT REFERENCES"

SOME FUNNY THINGS,

Is the title of a spicy little volume, by the

"DETROIT FREE PRESS" MAN, "BURLINGTON HAWK-EYE" MAN, "DANBURY NEWS" MAN, AND A SCORE OF OTHER FUNNY MEN.

READ WHAT THE PRESS SAYS:

"There are at least three score distinct laughs—some of them of the species termed 'guffaw'—in the pages of this modest publication, and to all but apoplectic persons it may be recommended as a guide to health and good humor."—Evening Mail.

"It is one of the spiciest books yet offered to the public, and is more than worth the price."—Cin., O., Gazette.

"Contains a well-chosen selection of paragraphs, and short humorous articles by the best known newspaper funny men."—Puck.

VERY FUNNY, NOT TOO FUNNY: JUST FUNNY ENOUGH.

This little volume (modeled after "Some Funny Things,") embraces a collection of laughable sketches by the Detroit Free Press Man, Burlington Hawk eye Man, Norristown Herald Man, and other well-known funny men.

READ WHAT THE AMERICAN BOOK-SELLER SAYS:

"An ample fund of mirth is contained in Very Funny, Not Too Funny: Just Funny Enough, a brochure issued by Frank Harrison & Co., which is selling by thousands, and promises to continue its popularity; indeed, could not be anything else than full of fun, wit and humor, when it embraces a careful selection of the freshest and best sketches of the funniest journalists in this country. In this laughter-provoking pamphlet we have, for a dime, the cream of the good things written by the Detroit Free Press Man, the Burlington Hawk-eye Man, the Norristown Herald Man, the Galveston News Man, and, we were almost going to say, 'by any other man' who has written a mirth-provoking paragraph worth preserving. Those who want to shake off the blues will find Very Funny as cheap a tonic, and as effective as any within the power of Esculapius himself to concoct."

RARE COOKING RECEIPTS,

Is the title of a new Cook Book, containing a collection of receipts that have never before been presented to the public. They embrace formulas that are now used in the principal hotels, restaurants and cafés of New York, and among them may be found single receipts that are more than worth the price of the book. The publishers have spent much time and money in collecting these receipts, and feel confident that they have a collection that will not only meet with the approval of the cook and housewife, but will be appreciated by all epicures.

Heretofore many of the cheap cook books, and in fact some of the more expensive ones, have been made up of a lot of old receipts, many of which had never been tried. The publishers of "RARE COOKING RECEIPTS" have avoided this policy, and now present to the public, at an amazingly small price, a book replete with fresh receipts for rare dishes, as used in the best hotels and restaurants of New York, impossible hertofore to obtain, and which have only been collected by a liberal outlay of money.
